Geoffrey E. Liebmann is a member of Cahill Gordon & Reindel LLP's corporate practice group and serves as Chair of Cahill's Publications Committee.

Geoff's practice is principally focused on securities offerings, leveraged finance and general corporate representation, and his clients include leading investment banks, investment funds, commercial banks, borrowers and issuers. Geoff's corporate finance experience includes public and private high-yield bond offerings, mezzanine debt financings, secured lending transactions, IPOs, PIPES and follow-on equity offerings.

In his general corporate practice, Geoff has extensive experience in the areas of ongoing SEC reporting and disclosure obligations, Sarbanes-Oxley and other compliance programs, NASDAQ listing requirements and delisting procedures, employee equity incentives, corporate governance, strategic planning and related matters. In particular, he has over 20 years of experience practicing in the life sciences industry handling a wide range of transactions, including private and public financings, royalty-based financings, intellectual property licensing, research and development collaborations, commercialization agreements, asset sales and acquisitions.
