Corey Wright is a member of Cahill's corporate practice group.

Corey's practice is principally focused on capital market transactions including both the high-yield bond and bank sides of financings and refinancings, debt and equity offerings and out-of-court debt restructurings, including debt exchange and debt tender offers. Corey has represented the financing sources in a number of leveraged buyouts, including hospital-operator HCA, Harrah's and Aramark. He also represented the dealer managers in a $38 billion private debt exchange offer by GMAC and certain of its subsidiaries, the largest private debt exchange offer to date.

Corey has experience practicing in a variety of industries including financial services, automotive, gaming, healthcare, building and building products, media and communications, retail and food services.

Corey is recommended as a leading finance lawyer by The Legal 500 and IFLR 1000: The Guide to the World's Leading Financial Law Firms.

Corey became partner in 2007.
