On Tuesday, May 5, partner Brock Bosson presented on “The Parted Veil: Combating Bribery, Corruption & Third-Party Risk in the Global Supply Chain,” a webinar hosted by Thomson Reuters. The vetting and selection of third-party suppliers can make or break a corporate supply chain. In today’s elevated enforcement environment, alleged misconduct by third parties in violation of FCPA guidelines can cost companies millions in monetary fines and irreparable harm to corporate reputation. This webinar offered new and essential guidance on managing and anticipating illicit behavior at every link within the chain, with a special emphasis on supply chain complexities and challenges during the COVID-19 pandemic.

This is the second installment of the Thomson Reuters Institute’s three-part webinar series on supply chain sustainability in the modern business environment. Leveraging insights from the legal, regulatory, and business communities, this series imparts essential guidance for any organization operating in an increasingly transparent and mercurial marketplace.
