
Sarah Chen Speaks at AABANY 2025 Fall Conference

Saturday, September 27, 2025 4:00 AM to Wednesday, September 17, 2025 2:01 AM

Sarah Chen, partner in the CahillNXT Digital Assets and Emerging Technology practice, will speak on the panel, “Breaking the (Block)chain: Women at the Forefront of Crypto Law & Regulation,” at the Asian American Bar Association of New York’s (AABANY) 2025 Fall Conference.

The discussion will feature leading women practitioners in crypto law and regulation. Panelists will examine the evolving legal framework governing cryptocurrency and blockchain, highlight the latest regulatory developments, and share insights on how blockchain is being applied across industries today.

Drawing from their career paths and experiences, Sarah and other speakers will also provide practical advice for aspiring lawyers interested in building a future in crypto law, as well as perspectives on navigating novel legal questions and staying ahead of regulatory change.
