
Gary Kalbaugh Speaks on “State-Issued Stablecoins and the Future of Digital Currency Regulation: Lessons from Wyoming’s Frontier Token” CLE Webinar

Monday, November 17, 2025 5:00 AM to Tuesday, November 18, 2025 12:01 PM

Cahill partner Gary Kalbaugh will speak on the CLE webinar “State-Issued Stablecoins and the Future of Digital Currency Regulation: Lessons from Wyoming’s Frontier Token,” which is hosted by MyLawCLE.

Gary and the other speaker will discuss the following topics:

- The strategic rationale behind FRNT, implementation timeline and blockchain infrastructure, and the potential implications if other states/sovereigns adopt similar models
- How stablecoins function and what backs them, comparative advantages over traditional peer-to-peer payment services and cryptocurrencies like Bitcoin and Ether, and practical applications that stablecoins uniquely enable in commerce and finance
- Analysis of impact of GENIUS Act, policy requirements for integrating stablecoins into the broader payment system, and balancing safety and soundness with competitive innovation
- The evolving competitive landscape between state-issued and privately-issued stablecoins, how major institutions (banks, corporations, and state governments) are positioning themselves in the stablecoin sector, and whether the United States attain leadership in the global stablecoin market
