Cahill partners Alfonso Garcia Chan and Patrick Lafferty will speak on the "In Practice: Finding Patent Licensing and Monetization Targets with AI" webinar hosted by Patlytics.

Alfonso and Patrick, along with other industry participants, will explore how AI can be used to help IP teams identify counterparties and turn patent portfolios into high-value monetization opportunities. The webinar will discuss why companies often devote limited resources to monetizing their portfolios and the shortcomings of manual research. The panelists will explain how AI helps connect patents to the products and companies most likely to use them and prioritize targets based on their relevance and potential value. They will also address verifying AI-generated findings with citations before taking action, ensuring attorneys' judgment guides every decision, and identifying realistic ways for law firms and in-house teams to integrate AI into their existing workflows.
