In a new article, Bloomberg Law discusses the recent growth in the corporate debt market as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. Citing record amounts of debt issued in March and April across the board, the article highlighted Cahill as an impressive high-yield debt performer in its representation of managers on 30 high-yield bond issuances alone through April, which was more than twice the number of its closest competitor. Cahill Executive Committee Chairman William Hartnett also provided valuable commentary on the effects the pandemic and capital markets shifts are having on the firm and Cahill's commitment to its lawyers and staff.
