John MacGregor Profiled by Law360 for Pro Bono Work Supporting Families Facing Rare Disease

Date: 09/19/25

Cahill partner John MacGregor was recently profiled by Law360 for his pro bono work on behalf of the Dravet Syndrome Foundation, an organization dedicated to finding a cure for Dravet syndrome, a rare and severe form of epilepsy.

The article highlights John's personal connection to the cause and his advocacy efforts to help expand access to gene therapies for patients with rare diseases. John is currently representing the Dravet Syndrome Foundation in its first courtroom advocacy effort, filing an amicus brief in a case with broad implications for patients' access to life-saving gene therapies.
