
Cahill to Partner on the 2026 QuantumUp! Challenge

Date: 04/08/26

On April 8, Cahill will sponsor and support this year's QuantumUp! Challenge hosted by the University of Connecticut. This interdisciplinary educational event connects students with diverse industry perspectives to build a deeper understanding of quantum technologies and their applications. Students will have the opportunity to analyze real-world implications and develop recommendations for how this technology can positively and effectively support the future.

Open to all graduate and undergraduate students at the University of Connecticut across Connecticut, this event will drive discussion on business, policy, and law in a quantum-enabled economy. Cahill actively supports initiatives that promote meaningful dialogue, foster learning, and create opportunities for the next generation on emerging topics at the intersection of law, science and business.

To learn more about the event, click here.

Practices

- Technology IP Litigation
- Intellectual Property Litigation