
Ariel Goldman Quoted on Surge in AI Data Center Bond Issuance

Date: 04/24/26

Cahill partner Ariel Goldman was quoted in International Financing Review's "Data Centre Bond Bonanza: US$15bn of Issuance Arrives in April" regarding the recent surge in bond issuances supporting AI data centers. The article highlights a significant increase in both high-grade and high-yield bond activity tied to AI data center development, reflecting strong investor demand and continued growth in the sector.

Ariel noted that there is "an extraordinary pipeline [of data centre financings]," adding that more deals are expected "in quantity and in scale." He further observed that "the scale of these deals and the amount of demand is going to necessitate going to every pocket of the market," with discussions already underway around transactions.
