Date: 07/07/26

Edward O'Callaghan, partner, co-chair of the firm's White Collar Defense & Investigations and chair of its Congressional Investigations, was quoted in Law360's "5 Midyear White Collar Trends to Watch."

The article highlights several developments that may affect white collar defense, including evolving Foreign Corrupt Practices Act enforcement and the increased use of material support to terrorism inquiries in corporate investigations.

Ed noted that "[m]aterial support inquiries are coming into play more often as potential avenues of investigation for more typical matters, not just financial institutions but companies that have made investments in the Middle East and elsewhere." He also expects the government to pursue additional material support for terrorism charges against companies with connections to cartels designated as terrorist organizations.
