

Law360 Recognizes Adam Zurofsky as a "Rising Legal Star Under 40"

Date: 04/07/10

Adam Zurofsky was recognized as one of Law360's "Rising Legal Stars Under 40" in the area of securities law. After receiving hundreds of nominations, the list was narrowed down to ten attorneys under the age of 40 in each of the following practice areas: intellectual property, employment, bankruptcy, corporate finance, competition, energy, environmental, securities, insurance, product liability, appellate and international trade.

The publication noted Zurofsky's work as a senior member of Cahill's team in representing The McGraw-Hill Companies and its Standard & Poor's ("S&P") division in dozens of securities related litigations and investigations. His profile appeared on Law360.com on April 6, 2010.

Cahill partners Doug Horowitz and William Miller were also named "Rising Legal Stars Under 40 to Watch" in the area of corporate finance.
