Law360 has named Cahill Gordon & Reindel to its inaugural list of ten "FCPA Powerhouse" law firms, which names those they consider to be the "true leaders in the fast-growing field" of Foreign Corrupt Practices Act law.

Law360 cited the number of attorneys at the firm working on FCPA matters and contributions to this developing area of law, including working on landmark FCPA cases, as well as client representations and outcomes as factors considered in their selection from a large pool of nominations.

The attached Law360 news profile explains why Cahill was selected and recognizes Cahill's role in landmark FCPA matters, including representation of the audit committees of Diageo PLC, Pride International Inc. and Wal-Mart Stores, Inc.
