The International Financial Law Review (IFLR1000) has ranked Cahill as a leading firm nationally for financial and corporate law in its 2020 edition, including the only Tier 1 ranking in high yield debt, noting that “the firm’s capital markets practice advised underwriters on some of the largest and most significant debt offerings – investment grade and high-yield – over the research period.” Cahill was also ranked in Tier 1 in banking, with the guide reporting that “outside of capital markets, the firm boasts a competitive banking practice that guides lenders on acquisition financings in a wide range of industries.” The firm has also been ranked in Tier 1 in capital markets in New York. In addition to the firm rankings, 33 individual attorneys have been recognized by IFLR1000 in the U.S. and the UK.
