Global Competition Review (GCR) has recommended Cahill in its 2020 edition of New York's Competition Bar, noting that "Lawyers in the New York bar are quick to heap praise on Elai Katz." The 2020 edition notes Cahill's strength in both litigation and transactions, highlighting their work on behalf of Credit Suisse in class actions challenging the bank's role in cases involving rate swaps, bank bill swap reference rates and SSA bonds, as well as highlighting their deal work on behalf of Envigo in the sale of its nonclinical contract research services business to LabCorp, and the simultaneous purchase by an Envigo subsidiary of LabCorp's research products business.
