

Law360 Names Cahill as a 2023 Structured Finance Group of the Year

Date: 02/29/24

Law360 has named Cahill as a 2023 Structured Finance Practice Group of the Year, highlighting the firm's representation of some of the largest financial institutions in the leveraged buy-out market. The profile highlights Cahill's ability to "pivot quickly when market conditions change," noting especially Cahill's guidance of the "$16 billion take-private of audience measurement company Nielsen."

The profile focuses on key highlights from the past year that have "shaped the market for leveraged finance products" including Apollo Global Management Inc.'s take-private of chemical distribution giant Univar Solutions Inc. for $8.1 billion, the exit financing for the bankruptcy of Talen Energy and Apollo's take-private of Tenneco for $6.0 billion.

In discussing the acquisition of Univar, partner Josiah Slotnick told Law360, "We were one of the few people that would get a call for this type of deal." Law360 praised Cahill's ability to develop "appropriate terms and [ensure] the banks' products went to market in a coordinated manner."
