

Floyd Abrams Awarded Walter Cronkite Freedom of Information Award

Date: 10/23/15

Floyd Abrams has been honored with the Connecticut Foundation for Open Government's Walter Cronkite Freedom of Information Award. The Walter Cronkite Freedom of Information Award is awarded every five years, and this year, as a part of the Connecticut Foundation for Open Government's 40th anniversary celebration of Connecticut's Freedom of Information Act. Previous recipients of the award have included Walter Cronkite, Jim Lehrer, Louis Boccardi, Seymour Hersh and, most recently, Bob Woodward.
