

Paying it forward: Pros help veterans launch successful start-ups

Date: 11/30/16

CNBC

Cahill's pro bono Veterans Small Business Project was featured on CNBC, where Dina Gusovsky reports on interviews with Cahill lawyer Brock Bosson, a former military lawyer in the U.S. Army JAG Corps who initiated the project, Raymond Collazo a veteran and founder of start-up FilmLinkUp, and Linda Browne, a former military physician who opened Zora's Café, a soul food eatery in Manhattan.

External Link: Paying it forward: Pros help veterans launch successful start-ups

Attorney

- Brockton B. Bosson

CAHILL GORDON & REINDEL LLP