
Steps To Take if This Pandemic Is Hurting Your Business

Date: 04/09/20

Many companies are currently experiencing dramatic reductions in revenues due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Such companies (along with their investors and creditors) are justifiably concerned that they may need to restructure and even potentially seek bankruptcy protection. Below is a list of items that any potentially distressed company should attend to as soon as possible to increase the likelihood of obtaining the most favorable outcome under the circumstances.

Attorneys

- Joel H. Levitin
- Richard A. Stieglitz Jr.