
Credit Agency Reform Act of 2006

Date: 10/27/06

The Credit Rating Agency Reform Act of 2006 ("the Act") was passed by the 109th Congress with the stated purpose of "improv[ing] ratings quality for the protection of investors" and promoting "accountability, transparency, and competition in the credit rating industry." President Bush signed the Act on September 29, 2006.

Attorney

- Charles A. Gilman