
Jason Schwartz Publishes “Recent Trends in Structuring Risk Retention Vehicles” in Law360

Date: 02/14/18

Cahill partner Jason Schwartz published “Recent Trends in Structuring Risk Retention Vehicles” in Law360.

In the article, Jason analyzes a tax framework frequently utilized by U.S. collateral managers of collateralized loan obligation (CLO) issuers to adhere to the U.S. and European “risk retention” regulations, which were established after the global financial crisis of 2008-2009 that require sponsors of securitization vehicles to retain a financial stake in those vehicles.

To read the article, click below.

Attorney

- Jason Schwartz

Office

- Washington, D.C.