
The Rising Risk of Ransomware and the Role of the Legal Team

Date: 07/16/19

In this column in New York Law Journal, Cahill partner David R. Owen examines how ransomware threatens organizations, and how they can best protect themselves. David offers examples of real world attacks, describes hacker methods and offers a number of important steps companies should consider undertaking immediately to ensure that if they are attacked, the effect on business operations will be minimal.

Attorney

- David R. Owen