Helene Banks Publishes "Parsing Boeing Decision In Light Of ESG, Caremark Trends" in Law360

Date: 10/26/21

Within the growing environmental, social and governance portfolio, many boards have become more intentional in their focus on diversity matters, considering term limits, adding environmental expertise, and requiring various ESG presentations from executives and management. In a new article for Law360, partner and chair of M&A and Corporate Advisory Helene Banks examines the recent Boeing case and other successful challenges under Caremark and how ESG's focus on stakeholder capitalism may be a contributing factor in opening the door for greater scrutiny of board governance under the Caremark standard.
