
Alfonso Garcia Chan and Kathleen Tierney Publish “Is the Government’s Claim to University Patent Royalties a Better Deal for Taxpayers and Innovation?” in Westlaw

Date: 01/27/26

External Link: Is the government's claim to university patent royalties a better deal for taxpayers and innovation?

Cahill attorneys Alfonso Garcia Chan and Kathleen Tierney authored the article, “Is the Government’s Claim to University Patent Royalties a Better Deal for Taxpayers and Innovation?”, published as a Practitioner Insights Commentary in Westlaw. The article examines a recent proposal for the federal government to claim a share of royalties from university-owned patents arising from federally funded research. It analyzes the existing legal framework under the Bayh-Dole Act and explores potential implications for patent enforcement, technology transfer, and innovation particularly in the life sciences.

To read the full article, click here or below.

Attorneys

- Alfonso Garcia Chan
- Kathleen I. Tierney

Practices

- Technology IP Litigation
- Intellectual Property Litigation